

CONGRESS READY TO BACK LANSING IN JENKINS CASE

Note Demanding the Consul's Release Not Yet Delivered to Mexico.

BANDIT MAKES DENIAL.

Kidnapper of Jenkins Says the Victim Had No Part in Plot.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 2.—An announcement was made at the Mexican Foreign Office last night that the latest American note calling for the immediate release of Consul Agent William O. Jenkins had not been delivered to the Mexican Government. It was learned at the American Embassy that there were numerous errors in the cable transmission of the note, which explains the delay in its presentation.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The firm stand taken by this Government, which leaves no alternative except the prompt release of Jenkins, is backed up by Chairman Porter of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs and Senator Fall, Chairman of the sub-committee that has in charge the investigation of the Mexican situation. After a conference with Secretary Lansing Mr. Porter said:

"I wish to say that I believe the State Department means business this time. I also believe that when the State Department's firm stand is put before Congress, we shall give it our strongest support."

Copies have been received of a statement by Frederico Cordova, the brigand who kidnapped Jenkins and held him until he was ransomed. He says the main object of the kidnapping was political and that Mr. Jenkins was not an accomplice. The statement, in the Revolution, a Mexican paper circulated surreptitiously by the anti-Carranzistas, quotes Cordova as saying he did the kidnapping "to combat in this manner the dictatorial Government of Carranza which, unfortunately for Mexico, has established itself in power" and that he and four subordinates accomplished the kidnapping "without outside interference."

While Senator Fall would not discuss his conference with Mr. Lansing, Chairman Porter said afterwards: "The danger to the United States of this condition of continual unrest and feeling of hostility toward us in Mexico lies in the fact that it provides a fertile field for anti-American propaganda, and even for a base for attack upon the United States by any foreign country that effected a combination with Mexico. By this the spirit, if not the letter, of the Monroe Doctrine, would be violated."

"Property rights have been violated and the Mexican courts have declared constitutional the confiscatory provisions of the Mexican fundamental law against which we have taken a strong stand. I have a copy of the Mexican court's decision in this matter. If we permit the property rights of our nationals in Mexico to be thus violated, where can we stop?"

MEXICAN MASSACRE RUMOR CREDITED ALONG BORDER

Villistas Said to Have Killed 674 Carranzistas to Avenge Angeles.

EL PASO, Texas, Dec. 2.—A sensational story of the slaughter of 674 Carranzista soldiers of the Rancho Espejo garrison by 1,000 Villistas is credited along the border to-day, despite official denials.

Dr. L. G. Gomez of Los Angeles and J. B. Perez, agent of a New York importing concern, declared they witnessed in Santa Rosalia scenes of mourning on the part of wives and relatives of the slain Carranzistas.

Dr. Gomez, one of the last friends of Gen. Felipe Angeles to be with the rebel leader before his execution, said the attack on the Carranzista garrison was to avenge Angeles' death. Villistas are said to be in northern Mexico with 2,000 strongly armed followers. Perez heard rumors that Villistas were planning to launch a new campaign of which the Rancho Espejo massacre, north of Santa Rosalia, was the beginning.

"Jimmy Glass" Bones Found to Be Those of Dog.

The bones found near Greeley, Pa., which it was thought might be those of Jimmy Glass, the missing son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Glass, were determined to be those of a dog by Dr. George D. White of No. 211 Union Street, Jersey City, to-day. Four other experts concurred in the opinion. Jimmy Glass disappeared in May, 1915. More than twenty communities between the Atlantic and the Pacific have "discovered" the last boy since then.

HENRY CLAY FRICK DIES HERE AFTER MONTH'S ILLNESS

It has been said that he was worth more than $100,000,000, perhaps as much as $200,000,000.

Mr. Frick built up the greatest coke business in the world. He acquired such vast interests in steel that he was one of the principal magnates of that industry. In rounding out his career he became known as one of the world's great collectors of master paintings. The farmer's boy died this morning in one of the most costly and most artistic palaces on Fifth Avenue. He was the largest owner of lands and buildings in Pittsburgh. His summer home at Price's Crossings, Mass., is the show place of the North Shore. He was born Dec. 19, 1849, at West Overton, Pa.

At the age of twenty-one the coke industry was in its infancy. The ironmasters of Pittsburgh were just beginning to appreciate the value of coke in their furnaces. Young Frick had an opportunity to acquire a limited interest in a plant near Bradford, and out of his profits he acquired other holdings. He later joined a company to build a railroad to penetrate the Connellsville coke region, and in 1871, the year this road was opened, Mr. Frick organized the corporation of Frick & Co., which bought coal land and coke ovens in the Connellsville district. This was the basis of the Frick fortune.

The Carnegies, then developing their great steel business, had taken large holdings in the Frick Coke Company, and in 1882 Mr. Frick found them willing to take him into the firm in consideration of further interests in the coke business. In this way Mr. Frick became also a great manufacturer of steel.

Mr. Frick achieved national prominence for the first time in 1892 at Homestead, Pa. Differences had arisen between the Carnegie Steel Company and its employees over a wage scale, culminating in a strike involving thousands of men, the calling out of the National Guard and the proclamation of martial law. It was at this period that Alexander Berkman, anarchist, tried to assassinate him.

Berkman walked into Frick's office, drew a revolver and fired, the bullet lodging in Mr. Frick's neck. Mr. Frick was shot a second time. Then he grappled with Berkman. During the encounter Mr. Frick was stabbed three times, but he downed his assailant and held him until the police came. Berkman was tried and sentenced to the Western Penitentiary in Pittsburgh for twenty years.

Some years later Mr. Frick conceived the proposition of buying out Carnegie—and came to know his first failure. Also he embittered Carnegie, who promptly began trying to drive him out of the steel business entirely.

Carnegie demanded $1,000,000 for a 30-day option on the business and asked $157,500,000 for his entire holding. The Frick plan called for a total of $250,000,000. The matter was taken to the first J. P. Morgan. He was not impressed. The Frick option expired at the cost of Frick's $1,000,000, which Carnegie put in his pocket. Mr. Carnegie, however, was left in

SHOT HER HUSBAND IN SELF DEFENSE, WIFE TELLS COURT

Brooklyn Man Wounded Three Times—Two-Year-Old Daughter at Shooting.

Anton Henelt, a clerk in the Irving National Bank, is in the Wyckoff Heights Hospital suffering from three bullet wounds, and his wife, Wilhelmina Henelt, is a prisoner in the Gates Avenue police station, charged with felonious assault, as a result of a shooting affray this morning at 6 o'clock at the home of the couple, No. 302 Palmetto Street, Brooklyn.

Mrs. Henelt, with her two-year-old daughter, Theodora, told her story to Magistrate Charles Dodd in the Gates Avenue Court when arraigned this morning. She said her husband was in the habit of staying out late, then coming home and quarreling until morning. Recently, she said, her husband, after beating her, locked her out of the house. She called a policeman, who pounded on the door and ordered Henelt to let her in. Henelt, the wife said, went down the fire escape and was gone two days. Mrs. Henelt said that she feared for her safety and went to Hoboken, where she bought a .22 caliber revolver.

Last night, she said, Henelt came home late and immediately started to quarrel and to threaten her. She said she took the revolver from her pillow and fired six shots at Henelt. Two of them struck his left shoulder and one his left hip.

After the shooting Henelt staggered into the hallway crying, "I'm shot." He then reeled back into the apartment and collapsed on the floor. When Detectives Kaufman and Woodie of the Watson Street Police Station arrived they found the husband crying, the father on the parlor floor and the mother standing over him, still holding the small revolver. Henelt is twenty-five years old and his wife is twenty-four.

PLOT TO KILL TAFT REVEALED AT TRIAL OF LIQUOR SLEUTH

Pignuolo Says He Worked on Investigation of Plan for Assassination.

Pasquale Pignuolo, under indictment with Charles P. McCarver, both agents of the Department of Justice, for alleged acceptance of bribes from saloon men to assist them in evading the dry law, starting those in the Federal Court this morning by narrating that he had been on an investigation into a plot to assassinate ex-President William H. Taft.

Pignuolo was a witness in his own defense and made the statement when telling of his previous experience and reputation. He denied emphatically, as did McCarver yesterday, that he had received any money from either Brennan or Carow, whom he and McCarver served with a summons to appear in the Federal Building. He said that he and his partner had bought drinks in the saloon of Brennan and Carow and taken them for evidence. The trial is going on before Judge Julian P. Mack and is expected to go to the jury before night. Pignuolo said that he had been in the country 21 years and with the Department of Justice for the last ten. It was while telling of his experience as a Government agent that he brought in the Taft assassination plot, but his testimony in this respect was cut short. The whiskey which he and McCarver took from the saloon, was offered in evidence.

Miss Throckmorton screamed. Two men leaped at her and choked her into unconsciousness. She was found unconscious on the floor by her father and neighbors who had been roused by her cries. The burglars escaped in an automobile.

BANK EMBEZZLER IS HELD.

Swenson Says Wall Street Got Most of $33,400 He Took.

Albin Swenson, former paying teller of the Bronx branch of the Columbia Trust Company, who has confessed to the embezzlement of $33,400 during four years, was held in $20,000 bail to-day by Magistrate Ten Eyck in the Morrisania Police Court.

Mrs. Swenson was in court, loyal to her husband. It is said that about $5,000 of collateral that the former teller has with a Wall Street house will be applied to his defalcations. Swenson declared his downfall was due to a debt of $165 contracted four years ago. He took the money from the bank funds and found it so easy to cover up that he continued his peculations. Wall Street, he says, got most of his stealings.

JURY FOR DEMPSEY IN MALBONE WRECK TRIAL

Former Vice President of Company Charged With Manning Trains With Unskilled Trainmen.

Twelve jurors were secured to-day for the trial at Mineola of John J. Dempsey on a charge of manslaughter before Supreme Court Justice Kasper. Dempsey was Vice President of the B. R. T. and General Manager of the Brighton Beach "L" when the Malbone Street Tunnel accident occurred on Nov. 1, 1918, in which ninety-two persons were killed and more than 200 injured.

Responsibility is charged against Dempsey on the claim that he operated the trains during a strike which was then on, with incompetent and untrained men. Herbert Warbase, chief prosecutor in the absence of District Attorney Lewis of Brooklyn, examined the prospective jurors.

William H. Gorman was excused from becoming a juror because he was acquainted with a relative of one of the victims of the wreck.
